

Archaeology & Historic Buildings Record

User Declaration

I, the undersigned, understand that in using the Archaeology & Historic Buildings Record (AHBR) I am aware that:-

1. Hampshire County Council holds copyright of the compiled AHBR information. No reproduction of the compiled information will be allowed as a direct copy of the original.
2. The information contained on the AHBR, although verified as far as possible, is not definitive.
3. There may be information concerning existing or new archaeological sites or finds which is as yet unknown to the County Council and which is not recorded in the AHBR at the time of the enquiry.
4. The whereabouts of any artefacts, other material, documentary sources or air photographs referred to in the AHBR and not kept in the AHBR reference files cannot be guaranteed.
5. Some information may be withheld because of its sensitive nature and the requirements of the Data Protection Act (1998).

6. Where AHBR information is used in reports or publications its source must be acknowledged.
7. The information from the AHBR will only be used for the purpose stated below and will not be stored beyond the life of the project for which it was acquired. Original digital media (CDs, disks etc) should be returned on completion of the project and the AHBR data deleted from all computers and networks.
8. No records, books, maps, files, photographs or any other materials belonging to the AHBR or its archive shall be removed from Archaeology & Historic Buildings without prior permission.
9. Depending upon the nature of the enquiry and the use for which the AHBR information is required a charge may be made according to the County Council's policies and scale of charges. A charge will be made for any photocopying or faxing that is required.
